

2023 in review

At the outset of 2023, financial markets grappled with historically gloomy expectations, anticipating a global economic slowdown and the looming threat of a recession. At the same time, central banks globally undertook the challenge of combating inflation. Subsequently, the US faced a regional banking crisis, and global geopolitical tensions reached heightened levels.

However, financial markets defied these concerns, highlighting the wisdom of the adage “time in the market beats timing the market”. Recession fears shifted to confidence as central banks signalled a transition from rate hikes to cuts in 2024, accompanied by a notable easing of inflation pressures. Global economic growth exceeded expectations, creating a favourable environment for risk assets and reshaping expectations towards a ‘soft landing’ – a harmonious blend of lower inflation, reduced interest rates and moderate economic growth.

Global equities thrived, as the MSCI World Index surged 24% in US dollars, led by resilient US mega-caps (2022: -18%). The Bloomberg Aggregate Global Bond Index rebounded gaining 6% in US dollars after a challenging 2022 (-16%). Emerging markets (EM), weighed down by China, continued to trail developed market indices with the MSCI EM index delivering a total return of 10% after losing 20% in 2022. Oil markets were rangebound for most of the year with crude averaging $78 (2022: $94 average).

MSCI Information Technology (+54%) and MSCI Communications Services (+46%) led the sectoral tables in 2023 after losing 31% and 37% in 2022 respectively, while MSCI Utilities (+1.4%), MSCI Consumer Staples (+3%) and MSCI Energy, 2022’s standout performer, returned 3.6%.

The global equity rally was notably concentrated in the ‘Magnificent 7’ – comprising mega-cap US-based companies Apple, Microsoft, Amazon, Google, Nvidia, Tesla and Meta (Facebook). Dominating global indices, these companies collectively surged by 74%, overshadowing the 12% gain for the rest of the world’s companies.

Looking forward

Although there are tentative signs that inflation is cooling globally and rate cuts are potentially on the horizon, it is important to acknowledge that the investment landscape today has undergone a profound transformation compared with the pre-Covid-19 era. We maintain the perspective that inflation may persist longer than widely acknowledged, necessitating a supply side response through investment in the capital-starved real economy – a process that could span years before the situation is rectified. This outlook bodes well for commodity sectors and value stocks generally. This stands in stark contrast to the current dominance of mega-cap stocks in the global indices, a concentration that raises concerns for us. The current market concentration bears resemblance to both the Nifty Fifty era and the dot-com bubble, historical periods that highlight that markets may eventually disappoint investors.

We find encouragement in the performance we have achieved in our funds, despite not benefiting from the outsized performance of the large market constituents. Our excitement looking forward stems from the current opportunity set embedded in our funds, as we believe that the longer-term winners of the future are currently unloved and offer exceptional value. We are confident that we can play a crucial role in building long-term portfolio strategies for our investors, leveraging our proven, active 3M investment approach to identify and capitalise on undervalued opportunities in the market.

Disclaimer

Collective Investment Schemes in Securities (CIS) are generally medium to long-term investments. The value of participatory interests (units) or the investment may go down as well as up and past performance is not a guide to future performance. Fluctuations or movements in the exchange rates may cause the value of underlying international investments to go up or down. CIS are traded at ruling prices and can engage in borrowing and scrip lending. The portfolio may borrow up to 10% of its market value to bridge insufficient liquidity. Where foreign securities are included in a portfolio, the portfolio is exposed to risks such as potential constraints on liquidity and the repatriation of funds, macroeconomic, political, foreign exchange, tax, settlement and potential limitations on the availability of market information. The portfolios may be capped at any time in order for them to be managed in accordance with their mandate. PSG Collective Investments (RF) Limited does not provide any guarantee either with respect to the capital or the return of the portfolio. Due to rounding, numbers presented throughout this document may not add up precisely to the totals provided.

Feeder Funds

A Feeder Fund is a portfolio which, apart from assets in liquid form, invests in a single portfolio of a collective investment scheme, which levies its own charges and which could result in a higher fee structure for the feeder fund.

Performance

All performance data for a lump sum, net of fees, include income and assumes reinvestment of income on a NAV to NAV basis. Annualised performances show longer term performance rescaled over a 12 month period. Individual investor performance may differ as a result of initial fees, the actual investment date, the date of reinvestment and dividend withholding tax. Performance is calculated for the portfolio and individual investor performance may differ as a result thereof. The portfolio is valued at 15h00 daily. Cut-off time is determined by the platform. Income distributions are net of any applicable taxes. Actual annual figures are available to the investor on request. Prices are published daily and available on the website www.psg.co.za/asset-management and in the daily newspapers. Figures quoted are from Morningstar Inc.

Pricing

Forward pricing is used. Unit trust prices are calculated on a net asset value (NAV) basis, which is the market value of all assets in the Fund including income accruals less permissible deductions divided by the number of units in issue.

Redemptions

The ability of a portfolio to repurchase is dependent upon the liquidity of the securities and cash of the portfolio. To protect investors, a manager may suspend repurchases for a period, subject to regulatory approval, to await liquidity. A suspension ensures that the sale of a large number of units will not force PSG Collective Investments to sell the underlying investments at a price in the market which could have a negative impact on investors. PSG Collective Investments will keep all investors informed should a situation arise where such suspension is required.
